

73. (d) The writer was against shooting the elephant because he felt it would amount to avoidable waste of useful property.
74. (b) The author compares the elephant to a costly machine because it can do as much work as an expensive machine.
75. (a) The elephant looked no more dangerous than a cow because it was quietly doing its work.
76. (b) The author was very fond of the old soldier as he used to tell him about his adventures.
77. (d) The soldier repeatedly tells that he walked two hundred miles because he emphasised that he was a strong soldier.
78. (d) The author mentions in the third line of the passage that he liked the story of soldier's escape from a Japanese prison-of-war camp.
79. (b) The old soldier, according to the author, was satisfied with his lot.
80. (c) The soldier's leg had to be amputated because his wounded toe turned septic.
81. (c) That the organisers had a difficult time because the meeting could not be started on time.
82. (c) The word 'assuaging' means to reduce.
83. (c) Further delay resulted in the people making noise.
84. (c) The educational system which caused fear in the second mind was based on punishment.
85. (a) System based on rewards did not satisfy the slow pupil.
86. (b) System based on marks appealed to the competitive spirit in the pupils.
87. (c) Man's movement is obstructed in a jungle.
88. (d) Movements of other beings helps snakes to receive advance warning.
89. (a) Option (a) is the correct choice. In this context, 'bearing' means 'effect'.
90. (a) There is a close relationship between ambition and activity.
91. (c) It means that ambition must be consistent with one's capacity.
92. (a) The underlying tone of the passage is that one must do everything as well as one can.
93. (b) One should not imagine oneself always to be better than others.
94. (d) The early instruments for measuring earthquakes were not sensitive enough.
95. (a) Because earthquake comes like a thief in the night.
96. (d) To record the facts with a pen and paper.
97. (c) The tendency of a standing person to fall when a bus or train moves.
98. (b) It was presumed that at the time of earthquake, the pen that we use to write on a paper should stay still and the paper should move.
99. (b) The author first played cricket when he was a school boy.
100. (a) "Felt my inherent foreignness" means 'feeling strange'.
101. (c) Spectators would shout "Butter Fingers" when the author was playing because the ball slipped from his hands and dropped.
102. (b) 'Spectator' means a person watching an event i.e., an onlooker.
103. (b) 'Regression' means looking back every now and then at what is already read.
104. (c) In order to be a good reader you should not look back frequently while reading.
105. (b) The author mentions in the fourth line of the passage that reading with regression is like stepping backwards while walking.
106. (a) Very few people can satisfy their needs today by providing things for themselves.
107. (b) Exchange of goods becomes possible only when goods are produced in surplus.
108. (d) Specialisation and exchange began when men started living in communities.
109. (d) Exchange of goods and services becomes necessary because we cannot produce everything we need ourselves.
110. (d) Soil scientists believe that not all worms and bacteria are harmful.
111. (c) The living things that do harm cause diseases in the plants.
112. (a) Farmers are always careful to control insects, fungi and bacteria that attack plants.
113. (b) Now-a-days, it is possible to reduce the loss caused by pests and harmful bacteria with resistant types of seeds.
114. (b) The farmers today can also select seeds resistant to frost and drought.
115. (d) The noise was made by the boy.
116. (c) 'Fast asleep old man' suggests that he was least disturbed.
117. (b) Everybody was waiting for something.
118. (b) The little man was most bored because he was turning the pages of the magazine nervously.
119. (b) The man was troubled as the blacksmiths' hammers made a lot of noise.
120. (d) Money was given to the blacksmiths to find new huts for themselves.
121. (c) The man wanted to know why the blacksmiths hadn't found new huts.
122. (b) The man came to know that the blacksmiths had exchanged their huts.
123. (d) As per the author, there was a possibility of the tigress covering the distance within the half hour.
124. (c) The path to the camp was not suitable for walking as it ran through heavy jungle.
125. (d) The author found it difficult to decide the question as there was uncertainty about the reaction of the tigress to his call.
126. (a) Shooting was possible during the daylight, hence option (a) is suitable here.
127. (c) When the author said 'all would be well', he meant that they would be able to shoot her down without difficulty.
128. (b) The flat did not really suit him any more as he was living on his own now.
129. (a) He did not look after the rest of the flat as he did not use it.
130. (d) Here, 'it' refers to 'the flat'.
131. (c) From the passage, we learn that the writer was satisfied with the space in his bedroom.